Boxing to return to Bay St. Louis

BY DENA BISNETTE
Boxing is returning to Hancock County after a long absence.

Up to 36 rounds of action featuring professional fighters from the Mississippi Gulf Coast and other southern states have been scheduled for Dec. 10, beginning at 7:30 p.m. at the Hancock County Fairgrounds.

Fred Williams said the show is the first time professional boxing has been featured in Bay St. Louis for many years. "This city has always been 'the best (amateur) boxing town on the coast."

The event is sponsored by the Hancock County Lawmen's Association and part of the proceeds will benefit the organization.

Williams has been in the boxing industry for about 12 years as a promoter and a coach for the USA team in world competition, and was an Olympic coach finalist. He said he went into promoting mainly because some of the fighters with whom he had been working had started boxing on a national level and wanted to turn professional, and he wanted to see that they were handled correctly.

For the past several years, Sheriff Ronald Peterson has been trying to get Williams to bring the sport back to Hancock County. Williams said he agreed to do so because he thinks the lawmen's association "is a first-class organization."

Three of the fighters on the Dec. 10 card are former national champs, and one is from Bay St. Louis. Several have already attracted good crowds along the coast, most notably during the Las Vegas-style shows at the Biloxi Hilton.

Joe Louis Goodman of Bay St. Louis has a 14-5 record with nine knock outs and will face former National Champion Sylvester White of Saucier, who is 15-4 with 12 KO's and weighs 165 pounds.

Former National Champion Chad Parker, who has won all three of his professional fights by knock out, will square off against 150-pound Roy Lee King of Jackson, Ala., who is 10-4 with six knock outs.

Another match-up will feature Tony "Rock" Gennarelli, 13-0 with 12 KO's, against 122-pound Sammy Jones of Houston, Texas, who is 9-1 record and seven KO's.

Also featured will be Amateur Champion Rusty DeRouff of Biloxi, a 140-pounder making his pro debut, 150-pounder Griffin Goldman of Mobile, Ala., 7-1 with six KO's; and National Amateur Champion Adolpho Washington, who, at 190 pounds, is also making his first pro appearance in the ring.

"We're looking forward to putting on a service for the community by providing a form of entertainment that has been missing from here for a number of years," Williams said. "If it does well, we'd like to do one every two or three months on a continuing basis."

"I see no reason that Bay St. Louis and Hancock County couldn't support something like this."

He explained that boxing attracts a more elite class of fan than most sports, and in keeping with that, table seating will be available.

Table seats are $15 reserved and the number is limited. General admission is $10. As of Friday, about 200 tickets had already been sold, Williams added.

Locally, tickets may be purchased at Trapani's, Loiacano's Health Club and First Precinct Restaurant and Lounge.

Local Doll & Toy Fund preparations underway

BY ELLIS CUEVAS
The Annual Hancock County Doll and Toy Fund drive's preparations are now underway according to Bay Fire Chief Andrew Lizana, chairman.

Lizana on Saturday said, "We begin to get really busy each year right after Thanksgiving, as residents now begin to think about Christmas."

The local Doll and Toy Fund provided toys for 894 deserving boys and girls at Christmas in 1987.

"I feel this year there may be a larger number of deserving children, as I have been hearing of quite a few residents being laid off from their jobs for the month of December this year," Lizana stated.

Names of deserving youngsters are received and coordinated by the Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) members from the Welfare Department, organizations, churches and individuals, Lizana said.

The Doll and Toy Fund is an agency of the Hancock County

United Way and also receives donations from organizations, businesses and individuals.

Several residents even purchase new toys while others collect toys their children have outgrown and donate them to the fund.

The program began several years ago as a project where firefighters would repair toys such as bicycles and wagons for a few deserving Bay St. Louis youngsters. The program now includes youngsters from

Airport operator relieved of lease

BY D.C. HARVILL

The long-running, legal battle between the fixed-based operator at Stennis International Airport and the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission came to an end Wednesday in a federal court.

The Federal Bankruptcy Court in Biloxi decided to invalidate a bankruptcy suit filed in July by William Carson on behalf of his company, Inovair International, Limited.

"After two days in court... (they) decided to invalidate Carson's bankruptcy since we had terminated his lease before he filed bankruptcy, so we have the FBO back. We are pleased with the action," Port and Harbor executive director Harold "Buz" Olsen said.

The road to Wednesday's decision began in March when the commission, claiming that Inovair, by providing neither mechanic services, nor flight lessons, had violated the terms of its lease, filed a suit to have the company evicted.

The eviction attempt was blocked when the company filed for protection under Chapter 11 of the bankruptcy laws and was granted 60 days to reorganize, during which no legal action could be taken against it.

The commission renewed its attempt to have the lease broken in July, when it discovered that the lease had not been signed by Inovair but by Carson personally. "But before action could be taken on the suit, Carson filed for personal bankruptcy, effectively tying the commission's hands and placing the matter in the hands of the bankruptcy court."

At that time Commission Attorney Robert Genin said,

"The bankruptcy court now has jurisdiction, and we've waited a petition with them to void the lease and give us possession of the airport."

Carson, who had purchased the airport FBO from Gary Lamb in 1986, claimed the commission had been in collusion to break his lease since the company took possession of the FBO.

"They've got up roadblocks at every opportunity, they've broken numerous laws, all in an attempt to break the lease," Carson said at the time.

The FBO will be closed until December 1, during which time no services or fuel will be available at the airport. After the first, fuel and services will be available to the public, the operation being temporarily run by the commission.

'Save the Theatre' meeting planned

BY DENA BISNETTE

Rumors that the Bay St. Louis Little Theatre's Boardman Avenue Playhouse is about to be destroyed have spurred efforts to save the building.

Although there is apparently no truth to the rumor, a group of people concerned that the building is deteriorating from neglect will conduct a public meeting at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at the playhouse to discuss efforts to save the structure.

John Holmes, who has done some acting but has served as the BSLLT's technical director for the past several years, said the building's structural problems are not that major.

There is a leak in the roof over the stage area and the floor is starting to show some problems from the dampness. A group of vandals, apparently children, spray-painted the remains of the set from "Greater Tuna," the last play presented there, but left no damage that could not be repaired.

There is no air conditioning, but the building is seldom used in the summer because, as Holmes explained, "The public is not theatre-conscious in the summer." The gas heat works reasonably well.

"The thing we don't have is a building that's altogether dry and weatherproof," he said.

However, he believes the red, barn-like structure is in pretty good shape, especially for something built of two temporary military buildings in 1946.

Money for repairs is likely to be a discussion topic at the Nov. 30 meeting.

"It's not the money," long-time BSLLT member and performer Sherry Schwabacher explained. "The money it would take to fix this place up would be fairly minimal. The cost of the number one priorities are minimal. Then there are other things that are less important and they would take a little more money. Then there would be the things we could do, the luxuries."

None of that is going to be worth anything if we don't have the people.

Gary Lamb, a musician who has supported the theatre behind the scenes by consulting, playing keyboards and working on sets, said the playhouse is more than a theatre house.

With its canted floor, theatrical lighting and wooden seats, the playhouse provides a suitable setting for other events ranging from club meetings to dance recitals.

Lamb wants to see what potential developed.

To a small extent, he has. When the Waveland Players had difficulty with vandalism and the electrical system in the Waveland Civic Center complex of 1950, they borrowed the playhouse for a production of "California Suite." "Greater Tuna" was also a Waveland Players production.

Holmes says that most of the playhouse, and BSLLT's dependence on it, is due to the fact that the building is owned by the city.

Marsh named fire service coordinator

BY DENA BISNETTE
Hancock County Fire Marshal Jay Marsh has been named county fire coordinator, giving him additional responsibilities regarding development of fire protection in rural areas. The board of supervisors named Marsh to the post in compliance with a new law which requires each county to develop its rural fire protection program in order to receive state monies from the municipal and county fire protection funds. Marsh has been in fire service for about 23 years, having started with East Hancock Volunteer Fire Department, where he served as chief for 12 years. He served as the first president of the Hancock County Firefighters' Association, of which he is still a member. He became a volunteer county fire marshal and was put on active status by the supervisors in 1985. He has also served as county radiological officer since 1981. In addition, he serves as deputy Civil Defense director. According to Marsh, the county fire coordinator's position was created by House Bill 693, passed during the 1988 Legislative Session. His duties include countywide coordination of fire services and implementation of practices and training to lower insurance rates throughout the county. In Hancock County,

JAY MARSH
Marsh will be working with 12 fire departments. In addition to his fire service work, Marsh is active in American Legion Post 77, of which he is a past commander. He currently serves as finance officer.

Red Cross blood donor hours

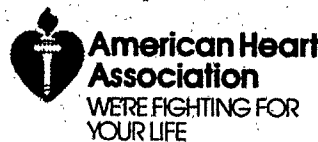

The American Red Cross' newly expanded donor center hours will make donating blood this holiday season more convenient than ever for Gulf Coast residents. Donors can now give blood at the Mississippi Gulf Coast Chapter House located at Fernwood and DeBry, in Biloxi every Monday from noon until 6 p.m. and every Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Gulfport donors can give blood at Memorial Hospital at 4500 13th Street every Wednesday from 2 p.m. until 6 p.m. The extended hours will make it more convenient for people to donate, especially during the holidays. "People often forget to make time in their busy holiday schedules to give blood," Donor Resource Consultant Liz Gaulke said. "We hope these convenient hours will encourage residents to roll up their sleeves and give blood to help save lives this holiday season. Giving blood is safe, easy and could help save a life. For more information on giving blood, phone the Mississippi Gulf Coast Chapter of the American Red Cross at 896-4511.

Free legal advice offered Wednesday

On Wednesday, December 7, from 6 p.m. to 7 p.m., a staff of volunteer attorneys will be answering legal questions from the general public at 1-374-4180. This is a toll-free number for all calls in Hancock, Harrison and Jackson counties. All other calls will be charged to the telephone from which the call is made. This service is sponsored by the Harrison County Young Lawyers, the South Mississippi Planning and Development District's Area Agency on Aging, and South Mississippi Legal Service Corporation. The "First Wednesday Legal Line" offers the public an opportunity to call for legal information and referral services for a specific problem. This service is especially intended for elderly, handicapped and low-income individuals who may not have access to an attorney or who may not know whether the problem requires the assistance of one. However, everyone with a question about the law is encouraged to call.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

This is the time of year when Bay St. Louis Firechief Andrew Lizana really begins to get busy as the chairman of the Hancock County Doll & Toy fund. Lizana is the coordinator for the operation in the county.

Last year at Christmas some 894 deserving boys and girls had a good Christmas through the efforts of the Doll & Toy fund.

I talked to Chief Lizana on Saturday and he said he expects there will be more deserving boys and girls this year.

As many of you know, the Doll & Toy fund operates throughout the year.

Since last Christmas the children of 16 families received toys as theirs were destroyed when homes burned.

The Hancock County Doll & Toy fund started as a small project many years ago by the Bay St. Louis Fire Department and involved firefighters reconditioning bicycles and wagons for a few deserving children.

Over the years it has grown into a large operation and involves many helpers.

The Doll & Toy fund is now an agency of the Hancock County United Way.

Toys are still donated by residents and reconditioned by firefighters. Some merchants donate toys, some businesses, organizations and individuals make a contribution of cash, and several senior citizens help by reconditioning dolls.

Retired Senior Volunteers Program, (RSVP) members coordinate the names of deserving boys and girls which they receive from the Welfare Department, churches, organizations and other sources.

Firefighters and members of other agencies also help to deliver the toys a few days before Christmas.

Chief Lizana shops for toys at local merchants and several give him special prices.

Persons having extra toys and would like to donate them to a worthy cause may leave them at the Bay St. Louis Fire Station, Old Spanish Trail and Bookster Street. Or if you wish, call 467-4736 for pickup.

Chief Lizana's goal is to see that every deserving boy and girl in Hancock County will be remembered at Christmas.

Jerry Hlass, as director of the John C. Stennis Space Center, has meant a lot to the area, and especially to Hancock County.

It was announced this past week that Hlass has been named as the assistant for engineering and technology at NASA's Headquarters in Washington D.C.

We wish Jerry well when he assumes his new position on January 23, 1989, yet we will miss his dynamic leadership.

His key role at the Hancock County facility will continue to play an important part in our nation's space programs for many years to come.

We are glad to hear Ray Estes will be Jerry's replacement as director of the local facility.

This will be a promotion for both, and we feel each of them deserve the promotions.

Agency heads appointed in govt. reorganization

For more than 50 years, elected officials, citizens and students have told us that state government in Mississippi needs to be streamlined and simplified.

But that has never been more true than in today's fast-changing, technological world.

Today, we must be able to plan and act quickly, or risk falling further behind in a highly competitive economic race.

Currently, there are many problems with the executive branch of our state government—that branch which implements laws enacted by the Legislature.

Two major problems today are:

A lack of accountability for the performance of state agencies.

A lack of planning.

My proposal for reorganizing state government would take major steps to improve both.

The plan, which will go before the Legislature in January, would establish 11 state departments at an estimated savings of $31.9 million.

At present, most major state agencies are run by boards and commissions. Those board and commission members are appointed to staggered terms, and they hire and fire the director of the agency. Basically, these agencies are run by committee, and, to use an old phrase, that is no way to run a railroad.

The proposed reorganization would allow the governor to appoint agency heads. That means when an agency fails to deliver services or perform the way it should, the governor can easily replace that individual.

Ultimately, the governor will be accountable to the people of Mississippi for the performance of state agencies rather than board and commission members unknown to most taxpayers.

While reorganization is a long-term goal, I believe the results of reorganization among state agencies, but if agency heads were appointed by the governor, state departments would be forced to work

Waveland animal shelter among tops in state

To the Editor:

I was interested in your remarks in your "Quotable Quotes" in the November 20 issue regarding the attempt of the Humane Society to build a new animal shelter.

As I read what you said, you implied that the Waveland shelter is not a "first class" one. You might be interested in knowing that Aileen Maldonado, president of the Mississippi Animal Control and Protective Association has stated on several occasions that the Waveland shelter is among the top five in the State.

I certainly have no objection if the Humane Society wants to build their own shelter for whatever reasons they might have; but, there is surely no need for another one in Waveland or Bay St. Louis.

Where the need really exists is up in the county somewhere in the Kiln or Diamondhead area, and if you want to get on a bandwagon why not expend your efforts where there is a real need.

Tree removal criticized by beachfront resident

To the Editor:

I commend Mr. Cuevas for his remarks concerning the removal of the palm trees located on the corner of Carroll Avenue and North Beach Blvd. I, along with several neighbors, was shocked to see these beautiful palm trees cut down.

The trees were situated on city property and were planted by the original owner. They were planted at great expense and were mature and beautiful.

Private property owners do not have the right to remove trees on city property just because it is adjacent to their own property. If this was the case, then all public property would be subject to this abuse.

I feel that the neighborhood and community suffered a great loss. I also feel that the palm trees should be replanted.

Respectfully submitted,
Robert R. Kane

Oge's performance outstanding

To the Editor:

A full page add in the November 24th edition of the Sea Coast Echo stated: Rumors are circulating that Dr. Roger Oge is on his way out.

He came to Bay St. Louis with an impeccable resume and his job performance is outstanding. So what is the problem?

Rumors are also circulating that the problem seems to stem from one and only one dissenting School Board member.

Since Dr. Oge's credentials are certainly in order the problem must not be a professional but a personal matter.

If the rumor about the dissenting board member is true, I'd like to know who it is so at the next election we could vote him or her on their way out.

Sincerely,
Rita Blaize-Watson

together in one direction instead of going separately in different directions.

The Mississippi Legislature will have better control over state government if the governor appoints agency heads. Not only will lawmakers have authority to confirm or reject the appointment of agency heads, but it will be much easier for them to figure out who is running an agency.

In 1930, Gov. Martin Connor said, "We have outgrown our administrative organization, and the efforts to modernize it have resulted in a complex, confusing, costly, inefficient system noted for its decentralization of authority and diffusion of responsibility...resulting in increased burdens upon the taxpaying public."

I believe what has changed today is our resolve to change for the better. I look forward to working with the Legislature to help make state government work better.

EYES ON MISSISSIPPI

By Bill Minor

Patriotism, military stands swing South to 'Republican'

Once more, the South is "solid" as a base for presidential electoral votes, but it is no longer the bastion of the Democrats. It's Republican country now, as George Bush's election only reaffirmed.

Bush not only won every one of the 12 states in the South on Nov. 8, but his 59 percent of the vote in the region was greater by seven percentage points than his margin in the other 38 states.

The loss of the Democrats' southern base is a phenomenon that most national observers date back to the 1964 Barry Goldwater incursion into the South when the GOP presidential standard-bearer took Mississippi and three other states in the region.

Some in the Deep South might argue that the defection of white Southern Democrats actually began with the Mississippi-centered Dixiecrat movement in 1948 which brought the first cleavage in the Democratic "Solid South."

Although the Dixiecrats asserted that their purpose was to strike a blow for states' rights and not to aid the Republican Party, in hindsight it provided a bridge over which Southern Democrats later traveled to the GOP.

Much of the GOP polarization of the South since 1964 has been along racial lines, first underscored by President Lyndon Johnson's embrace of a strong civil rights program. The fact that Goldwater had voted against the 1964 Civil Rights Act became a strong selling point for many white Southern Democrats to vote Republican for the first time in their lives.

Although it was unspoken, the racial factor had entered into the great popularity of Ronald Reagan in the South in his landslide victories of 1980 and 1984.

In the Nov. 8 election, white southerners voted 67 percent for Bush, while only 32 percent of whites voted for Democrat Michael Dukakis. In Mississippi, Dukakis fares even worse with white voters, getting only an estimated 22 percent.

According to a New York Times/CBS poll exit poll, whites in the South earning more than $25,000 a year voted for Bush by 72 to 27 as compared to a 59-40 margin for Bush in the rest of the country.

Gallup polls conducted for the Los Angeles Times had shown that racial feelings entered into the voting patterns throughout the nation, not just in the South. About one-third of all strong supporters of Bush nationwide scored high on what Gallup called its measurement of racial intolerance.

Some southern authorities, including Merle Black, professor of political science at the University of North Carolina, have said however, that other issues, such as military defense and patriotism, had a significant part in the overwhelming defeat of Dukakis in the South.

The "pledge of allegiance" to the flag issue raised by Bush apparently carried more weight in the South than elsewhere in the country. A Gallup survey for the Los Angeles Times showed that 51 percent of southern voters said the pledge issue was important to them, whereas only 29 percent of Eastern voters, and 37 percent of voters in the West answered affirmatively.

While the Democrats were losing all of the 168 electoral votes in the South, they found some prospects for the future in the West and the Midwest. Some believe this could lead to an abandonment of hope for the party to regain its southern base in pursuit of happier times in the West.

Southern Democratic leaders fear most is that Jesse Jackson could not emerge as the leader of the Democratic Party amid the post-election shambles.

"We cannot let Jesse Jackson take over the party," said one Mississippi Democratic leader, "even if it means a major confrontation with Jackson and we have to give up some black voters."

Meantime, as the Democrats face the agonizing task of restructuring the party, at least one Mississippi figure-former Gov. William Winter—could be among the southerners who will be invited to take part in that process.

Side Street Crossings

By Dena Bissette

Thanksgiving is over and there is no leftover turkey in my fridge, so there's a lot of shopping to do.

My husband Joe and I were fortunate enough to have two Thanksgiving dinners. My family moved the holiday up one weekend to coincide with a visit from my brother Dennis, who is in his last semester at Ole Miss Law School. On Thanksgiving Day itself, we went out with friends.

Thanksgiving away from home means no leftovers, unless you're into care packages from Mom or doggie bags, and whatever doggie bags I get always go to the two doggies who beg from under the kitchen table at home.

I happen to like turkey, and when I lived with my parents I didn't mind turkey sandwiches for a couple of days. It was all that other stuff—the couple of slices of jellied cranberries nobody had room for, the cold dressing, the gravy and the pies that disappear long before the whipped topping does.

Cold dressing can be disgusting, and I never could get that stuff to heat all the way through the middle. Cold dressing reminds me of wallpaper paste.

The pies are something I don't need, along with the whipped cream. By the way, whipped cream by itself is revolting, but it's okay in coffee.

Some people would consider it a major advantage not to have leftover turkey. They're probably the one with kids who say, "What, turkey again? Gee Mom, I hate turkey quiche." I kind of missed the turkey sandwiches on Friday. Maybe they're just a habit.

What was I supposed to do, cook a turkey for two? Maybe I could use one of the children's recipes printed in Thursday's edition of The Sea Coast Echo. Some of those little kids probably know more about cooking a turkey than I do.

They've watched their moms. When my mom cooked turkey, I was always busy tearing the bread for the dressing or rolling pie crusts. Even a non-domestic like me couldn't mess up those things, and I could still keep track of the football game.

That means I've got to go shopping, and grocery shopping is so dull unless you get the wheel of your cart locked with the wheel of a cart being pushed by somebody interesting; besides, I don't think Joe wants me to go into the grocery store romance business.

Joe just got back from a business trip, and while he was gone I fell right back into my old shopping habits: dash into the store, grab whatever I happen to want on that particular day and the ever-necessary box of dog biscuits to bribe my home security system with, pay for the stuff and run.

Either that, or load everybody up in the car and head for the Burger King.

Did you ever drive up to a fast-food window with two dogs instead of two kids, order for three and watch the clerk's reaction when you say, "Whopper, hold the lettuce, tomato and pickles, bacon-double cheese, and cheeseburger, hold the lettuce, three orders of fries, one coke and two waters?"

You usually have to repeat yourself several times regarding the order, then grab your food before your passengers rip the bag open with their teeth. Besides, what self-respecting carnivore is going to wait for the ketchup before he devours his fries? They're not real neat about eating in the car. Last time we went to a drive-in somebody dropped an onion ring and it took me three days to find it.

Maybe there are advantages to having leftover turkey at home. Maybe I should have gotten a turkey before Joe went on his trip.

The day after Thanksgiving is considered the first day of Christmas shopping season anyway, and I hate shopping after that particular Friday. Too many temptations abound.

In the department stores, it's easy to stay away from the candy section if you're trying to shop for a sweater for the man who's six-foot-five, an original gift for the dad who's already bought it all or an inexpensive necklace for a sister who only wears the finest.

In the grocery stores, the evil stuff lies around every corner—there's peppermint candy, candy canes, fruitcake, frozen cream pies, fancy cheeses—you name it, it's fattening or high in sugar, sodium or cholesterol, and it's there.

What, you think I stay good-looking like this by eating whatever I want? I'm the one that ends up going to the holiday open houses and meeting all those darling, well-meaning folks who say, "Here, have one more piece of cake. With your girlish figure, you can afford it."

The girl is close to 30 and the body quits cooperating at 23. The only way to look good under those circumstances is to maintain self-control at home, which begins with maintaining self-control at the grocery store.

Holiday temptations sure do make that a hard job.

Maybe I'll just make up a list and let Joe do the shopping until the holidays are over. By the way, honey, do you think you could find a good price on a leftover turkey?

HEAD START ON CHRISTMAS—Sylvia Shiyon and son Michael, 14 months, of Waveland, braved the crowded aisles of Kmart Friday in an attempt to shorten the length of their Christmas gift list. are no longer with us and it is hoped we will receive enough dolls so we could use a few more helpers this year," Lizana allowed.

The chief continued, "The only reason we are able to reach so many deserving youngsters is because of the contributions and number of volunteers who help our firefighters each year."

The Doll and Toy Fund operates throughout the year, as it also provides toys for youngsters in families who lose their homes to a fire. Since last Christmas, 16 families have been helped, Lizana said.

Persons with used toys may drop them off at the Bay St. Louis Fire Station, Old Spanish Trail and Bookter Street, or call the fire station business number, 467-4736, for them to be picked up.

Lizana finished by saying "I want every deserving child in Hancock County to have a very Merry Christmas, and anyone wanting to help or make a contribution can call the fire station's business number."

coming to plays. The audience has been down the last two or three years; there are so many other diversions like movies and television.

"Is the theatre dying out?" "If the theatre were solid gold and we put on the best plays, would the people come?"

BSLLT has put on "some of the best plays," having won awards for some of its past productions. In addition, it is one of the oldest little theatre companies on the Gulf Coast and has always been community-supported; no federal grant money has ever been received.

Lamb emphasized BSLLT's wide attraction, which goes beyond Bay St. Louis. During just the past four years he has lived in Cedar Point, people from Biloxi to Picayune has travelled here to participate in productions, and depending on the time of year, many New Orleans people either participate or attend plays.

Holmes speculated that the theatre has been caught up in the same situation as any agency that depends solely on volunteers, because, as Lamb pointed out, "No one has ever been paid for doing anything here. We are all volunteers."

Schwabacher has stayed considerably more optimistic than Holmes about whether the theatre can continue to appeal to people.

"I think you have to be. If you say there is no audience, there isn't one."

"I feel that the audience is still there. There are also people who have never seen a stage production and would find it exciting and rewarding," she said.

She agreed, though, that using the playhouse for just four or five productions a year is not enough and wants it to become "a cultural center for the whole community."

The audience is there. More participants and members are needed to help pay the insurance, utilities and other building expenses.

"A lot of people think that the minute they walk into a theatre they have to perform; but that's not true. For every one person on stage, four or five people work to put it together."

She said people who want to join the theatre don't need to be performers; they can do backstage work ranging from construction and painting sets and running lights to opening and closing curtains. If that sort of work is not to their taste, they can hand out programs at the door or serve on reading committees that choose the plays.

The meeting will include the election of a steering committee to take whatever action is appropriate to save the theatre.

GUARD
What is the difference between the State Guard and the National Guard?
As the National Guard is a dual purpose, federally funded, state controlled military organization responsible to the state, the State Guard is a volunteer organization of citizens capable of being mobilized in an emergency. If the National Guard is mobilized, the State Guard is not. The State Guard is a civilian organization that provides training and support to the National Guard and other state military units.

Tree Assistance Program offered by ASCS office

Commercial tree producers who experienced significant seedling losses because of the 1988 drought may apply for the Tree Assistance Program (TAP) at the local office of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service. Requests for cost-share assistance to reestablish seedlings under the program will be accepted through June 30, 1989, according to county ASCS official Franklin A. Gennin.

Authorized by the Disaster Assistance Act of 1988, the TAP compensates eligible producers for losses of commercial seedlings planted in 1987 and 1988.

Gennin said losses on individual stands of seedlings must be more than 35 percent, after adjustment for normal seedling mortality, to qualify for assistance under the program. "Cost-share reimbursement will be made for 65 percent of the cost of replanting that portion of the adjusted loss which exceeds 35 percent," Gennin explained.

To be eligible for the program, tree producers must (1) own no more than 1,000 commercial tree acres; (2) have less than $2 million in annual qualifying gross revenues; and (3) own at least one acre of commercial trees. "No person may receive more than $25,000 in payments under the program," the ASCS official said.

Trees covered under the program include those planted for the production of wood products, fruit, nuts, syrup and similar products, including Christmas trees grown for harvest.

Additional TAP details may be obtained from the Pearl River-Hancock County office.

Reflections

We crave company

It is better to enjoy a simple daisy or even a plain blade of grass together with someone dear to you than to browse alone through the most fabulous botanical gardens in the world.

There are exceptions, of course, especially those people who tend to feel more comfortable alone than with another. Many others just feel that they need their own space now and then.

For most, however, provided they appreciate the person(s) with whom they share life, human company enhances everything everywhere. In such company, a plain blade of grass or a simple daisy takes on a beauty beyond that of the flashiest flowers.

Better to enjoy the humblest of meals with one whose company you cherish than to feast alone on the finest multi-course banquet.

Ordinary bread and water assume more magic in good company than sumptuous meats, sauces, vegetables, seafood, fruit and drinks can ever conjure up when one dines in solitude.

"It is not good for man to be alone" (Gen. 2:18).

Naturally, that is understood generically. Neither is it good for woman to be alone. Under the ordinary dispensation of nature, it is not good for anyone to be alone, because God made us to be complements to each other in every phase and facet of life.

As brilliant and beautiful as it is, a sunrise or sunset lacks something when viewed by a single set of eyes. In fact, a foggy, cloudy or overcast sky has considerably more impact and meaning when shared by people who relate deeply to one another.

Better to weather a violent, dangerous storm together with hearts which beat as one than to move alone through a day of sunshine, fresh breezes, tranquillity and safety. Solitary light and safety cannot hold a candle to share darkness and danger.

A roaring surf, a glassy lake, a rippling stream and a coursing river all have a fascination of their own. Yet, they leave our heart partly empty when contemplated alone. In the right company, all of them become laughing, joyous waters.

Better to share the smallest, tackiest-looking hut with one with whom you think, speak and act in unison than to lounge around the poshest, most exclusive mansion in the world.

Overdone mansions have a way of filling one with emptiness, of accentuating the lonely frustration of abundant material goods which, at best, fail to create companionship, love and affection.

Even extensive travel to interesting and exotic places falls flat if one has to travel unaccompanied. There is, again, that empty feeling that something is missing, and there is the restless urge to share sights and sounds with a fellow human.

Yes, it is far better to remain near home with one whom you love dearly than to travel abroad or anywhere alone.

Better to spend time, that most precious of all commodities, with one who makes time come alive and makes it feel even more precious than ever. Unless you are inclined to be a hermit, passing time alone takes most of the seasoning out of life.

It is no accident or coincidence that we crave company so constantly and so strongly. St. Augustine wrote movingly about the ultimate goal or our restless, relentless pursuit of companionship:

"Our hearts are restless, oh God, and they will never rest until they find their rest in you!"

For the time being, however, we need flesh-and-blood companions who make our life meaningful and priceless. Thanks to Jesus, our brother in the flesh, we experience God in the company of each other.

First Baptist presents 'Cry From the Mountain'

"Cry From The Mountain", a World Wide Pictures production, to be presented today at 6 p.m. at First Baptist Church, 147 Main St., Bay St. Louis, is an adventure film set in the majestic wilderness of Alaska by screenwriter Daniel L. Quick. Scene after scene portrays the beauty and wildlife of this "last frontier" state.

The story centers around the Sanders family. Larry Sanders takes his 10-year old son Cal on a camping trip where he is to break the news that he and his wife Carolyn are getting a divorce.

Meanwhile Carolyn, filled with bitterness and unable to forgive her husband for an affair he has had with a woman in his office, considers the option of having an abortion. Through a life-threatening accident and an old hermit living in a deserted mining camp, the course of events is changed for the Sanders.

The principal roles in Cry From The Mountain are played by four outstanding performers.

James Cavan plays Jonathan, the old hermit who is the caretaker of a deserted mining camp, and who lives alone with his dog Jake. The old man resents the intrusion of Larry and Cal Sanders, but eventually comes to share his Christian faith.

Wes Parker plays Larry Sanders whose marriage is on the brink of disaster because of his unfaithfulness and his wife's unwillingness to forgive.

Rita Walter is Carolyn Sanders who is unable to forgive her husband and contemplates having an abortion.

Chris Kidd plays 10-year old Cal Sanders. When his father is seriously injured in a jaywalking accident, Cal seeks the help of the old hermit, Jonathan.

Billy Graham appears as himself with a message of hope.

Notable in the supporting cast is Coleen Gray, who plays the mother of Carolyn Sanders.

HOMEOWNER WILLIAM BRADLEY, standing, watches as Hancock County Fire Marshal Jay Marsh kneels to inspect some of the debris from a fire that damaged Bradley's home Friday morning. The cause of the fire has not yet been determined. (Echo staff photo by D.C. Harvill)

School board member's home damaged by fire

BY D.C. HARVILL
A Bay St. Louis School Board member's home was heavily damaged Friday morning by a fire the source of which investigators have yet to determine.

At approximately 10 a.m., fire gutted the front portion of Willie Bradley's house, apparently having started in a "show case" room that contained antiques. The rest of the house sustained severe smoke and water damage. Bradley said his wife, who had left the house shortly before the fire, had heard a noise like something falling on the roof before she left.

The fire is being investigated by Hancock Fire Marshal Jay Marsh and the Bay St. Louis Fire Department.

Late Friday, Marsh said the fire was rather baffling, but he had no indication, at that time, that it was caused by arson.

CLUBS, AUXILIARIES

American Legion Auxiliary Unit 139

The regular monthly meeting of the Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Auxiliary, Unit 139, was held on Monday, November 14, at the Legion home.

It was opened by the president, Mrs. Janet Aime. The colorbearers, Mmes. Hazel Wohlschlegel and Christie LaFontaine, advanced the colors, followed with the prayers read by the Chaplain, Mrs. Debbie Collier. Mrs. Lana Noonan led the members in the song "Let there be peace on earth." The president then led the membership in the Pledge of Allegiance followed by the Preamble.

The secretary, Mrs. Noonan, then read the roll call of officers; following it up with the reading of the minutes of the previous meeting.

Mrs. Bobbie Tomlinson, treasurer, gave the financial status of the Unit.

Our guest speaker was Horace Ruhr, a member of Post 139, who spoke of the needs of the veterans; the great work the Unit is doing especially in the "locked wards", how much it has helped in the rehabilitation by having the "ice-cream and cake" parties and also taking the men out for picnics, and the collection of clothing. Mr. Ruhr is qualified to speak on this subject having worked among these veterans for many, many years.

Mrs. Lucille Boudreaux thanked the members for their generosity and support which helped her through a rough time.

Mrs. LaFontaine was thanked for her participation in the Veterans Day parade; as was Mrs. Piazza who marched carrying the colors for the Unit.

The membership present at the meeting voted to make this a unique Christmas; instead of the usual "swapping of Christmas gifts" we would donate the cost of the gift, $5, to be put into the Emergency Fund, which needs it more than we do; and also being a covered dish for our dinner, on December 12.

Mrs. Piazza told of the clothing that was brought to the Veterans and how happily it was received. She also reminded the members to get their gifts in for the veterans gift shop to her as soon as possible as the time for that activity is December 4, 5, and 6.

Mrs. Pat Gillan, chairlady of the children and youth committee, sent her report in with Mmes. Roslyn Weathers and Oris Planchard, on the success of the Halloween Day activity.

On Tuesday, November 15, Unit 139, hosted an ice cream and cake party for the veterans in Ward 41 at the Gulfport Veterans hospital. The volunteers who served were Mmes. Susan Piazza, Mattie North and Betty Hood. The veterans look forward to these monthly visits and a good time was shared by all.

On Wednesday, November 16, because of the inclement weather, the regular monthly picnic was held in the "Rec" hall in the Gulfport veterans hospital. The entertainment was provided by Messrs. Vic Greene and Bert Johnson. The volunteers of the Auxiliary who served were: Mmes. Susan Piazza, Phyllis Moran, Betty Hood and Evelyn Burns and Mr. Jesse Burns. There were 100 veterans at this activity and all enjoyed the lunch and music.

Fontaine, "TOPS Turkey Contest" winners were: Lina Bates, Mary Davids, Janet Wiggins, Marilyn Bailey and Marion Gorgeson.

The club invites anyone interested in weight control to come visit. The meeting is held every Tuesday at the Pass Christian Library on Hiram Avenue between 6:30 - 7:30 p.m. Weigh-ins are between 5:30 - 6:30 p.m.

For more information, please call Gayle Arnold at 467-7198 or Jeannie Livings at 452-9706.

Pass Christian VFW Auxiliary

The Cecil R. Ruddock VFW Post 5931 and the Ladies Auxiliary of Pass Christian held their Annual Voice of Democracy Awards Dinner Friday, Nov. 18, at 6:30 p.m. There were 47 guests and members present. Before dinner James Cerra, member, said the opening prayer. Dinner, dessert, coffee and tea were enjoyed by all.

Kenneth Bloom, master of ceremonies, presented Mrs. Liz Callahan, Americanism chairman. Bloom said that Mr. Tom Parker, 93 years old, was the oldest member of the Post. Mr. Parker and his wife were present at the dinner.

Bloom then spoke on the organization of the Post and the Ladies Auxiliary. Two students from Pass High were introduced. They are both attending Jeff Davis on a scholarship from the Post. The two judges of the contest were introduced. The theme of the contest was "Preparing for America's Future."

Students from the 11th and 12th grades from Coast Episcopal and Pass High entered the contest. Mrs. Simmons and Mr. James, teachers from Coast Episcopal and Pass High, were introduced.

Mrs. Callahan then presented the trophies and certificates. Billy Guice, Coast Episcopal, received a certificate for Honorable Mention. Third place, Candice Payne from Coast Episcopal; second place, Lee Ann Stafford from Coast Episcopal; first place, Sonia Cook from Pass High. First, Second and Third place winners received a certificate and a trophy.

Commander Harshbarger thanked everyone for coming and also thanked the ladies who prepared and served the dinner.

Mrs. Callahan spoke on the goals of Americanism.

Did you know that one pound of excess weight contains 3500 calories? To lose that pound you must consume 3500 fewer calories than your body uses - 500 fewer calories per day to lose one pound a week; 1000 fewer calories per day to lose two pounds per week.

Always remember that weight lost slowly and steadily is more likely to stay lost than weight taken off too quickly.

Keesler presents Messiah

Keesler Air Force Base will present its 35th annual production of George Frederick Handel's immortal 'Messiah' Dec. 2 and 4 in Chapel One under the direction of Dr. James C. Downey.

The Dec. 2 performance begins at 7:30 p.m., while the performance Dec. 4 starts at 2:30 p.m.

Both performances are open to the public without charge.

Handel composed his Messiah based on a text by Charles Jennens, in only 24 days, completing the massive work on Sept. 14, 1741. The composer himself said, "When I composed the 'Hallelujah chorus,' I did think I did see all heaven before me, and the great God himself!"

The Messiah is most often thought of as a Christmas work, but it is equally appropriate at Easter because it tells the story of Christ from the birth to crucifixion and resurrection.

The work was first performed in Dublin, Ireland on April 13, 1742, with Handel conducting. The following year the work received its English premiere, at which time the king stood up during the chorus, and tradition was born. Throughout the western world it became the single most performed work of the Christmas season in churches and communities. Handel designed the work so that it was within the reach of church choirs and amateur groups.

According to the director, Handel's Messiah is one of the most satisfying of all the Christmas music to conduct.
